Types of privately-owned businesses (Private sector)

Sole Trader – the smallest type of business. It is owned by one person although they may employ someone to help them. They are responsible for every area of the business and they keep all the profit they have earned after they have paid tax.
Partnership – if a sole trader wants to grow their business, they may choose to take on a partner. This means the business is owned by 2 or more people and they are all responsible for running the business

Complete the table below, pay particular attention to the way you describe the benefits and the drawbacks of each section.

1. Give some business examples of a sole trader
2. Give some business examples of a Partnership

One of the UK's biggest partnership within the UK:

'The John Lewis Partnership is the UK's largest employee owned business. We started as an experiment in industrial democracy by our Founder, John Spedan Lewis, who believed there was a better way of doing business.

Because of this we're more than employees, we're owners. That's why we're called Partners'

https://www.johnlewispartnership.co.uk/about.html

Within a private owned business such as a sole trade and a partnership, they have something called Unlimited Liability. This means that if their business loses money, they may have to sell their belongings such as their house, car etc to pay their debts. The law sees the owner of the business and the business itself as the same thing.

1. Discuss the limitations of being a business with Unlimited Liability

Private Limited Company – often shown as Ltd. Rather than just having one or two owners who run the business between them, there are more owners (often friends or family) who invest their money and each of these are called shareholders. If the business does well, they get a share of the profit in the form of a dividend. Often the shareholders are the directors of a business and help run the company.

A Ltd has limited liability which means that if the business is in debt, the shareholders will only lose the money they have invested, not their personal belongings.

Public Limited Company – also known as a plc and is the largest type of private business. The shares in the company can be bought on the stock exchange by anyone which is why it's called a public limited company. The business can raise more money by selling more shares to the public and increasing the number of shareholders it has. A plc also has limited liability, the shareholders can only lose the money they have paid for shares if the business gets into trouble.

Business Liability

To protect the business against the risk of being sued or held legally responsible, anyone owning or running a business should insure against such liability. There are multiple insurance companies offering such cover and, as with any insurance (for example, car or house insurance), they offer it at different rates and with different terms and conditions. Insurance for liability includes Public Liability Insurance and Directors' and Officers' Insurance (D & O). Depending on the ownership, size and type of business, the cover will also vary.

☐ Define and explain what each of the key terms are below, ensure you have included an example

Publicly owned Businesses (Public sector)

Government Departments & Agencies – these operate on behalf of the government such as Department of Health and Department of Education and are staffed by civil servants. Their jobs are to spend the money they're given from taxpayers via the government wisely to provide services (like health and education) that everyone needs.

Government Agencies are more independent of the government than government departments. The government sets up agencies to be responsible for certain things such as the Child Support Agency and UK Border Agency. Although these also use money given to them by the government, they have more freedom to run the business and make decisions.

Aims and objectives

Aims of businesses in different sectors. The same applies to businesses needing to plan out their aims and objectives to strive for success. These are built around three key areas:

- mission (a promise of commitment to the business cause)
- vision (the direction the business aims to travel in the future, short or longer term)
- values (the philosophy and ethos of a business which underpin the vision).

Mission

You may have heard or seen the mission statement of the place where you are studying. Mission statements are often found at the front of any marketing materials and websites. While a mission statement is intended to represent the overall aim of the business, it should be informed by the vision and values of the business.

Vision

A vision statement is easily confused with a mission statement. Its aim is to clearly communicate the future plans for the business, particularly to its employees. They can become involved in the plans for the business and their jobs and organisation structure will need to support this vision.

Values

Organisational values will vary across businesses depending on their overall aim. Businesses such as Sainsbury plc promote their eagerness for growth, while Coca-Cola are keen to promote their commitment to a sustainable environment. British Gas also promote their commitment to the environment.
